Mukhyamantri Balika Samriddhi Yojana (MBSY)
Government of Tripura
Modalities / Guideline :

Introduction :- Tripura is a State in North-East India. The third-smallest State in the country in terms of area. In 2011, the State had 36,73,917 residents, constituting 0.3% of the country's population. Tripura becomes India's third Fully Literate State after Mizoram and Goa with 95.6% literacy rate.

As per NFHS-5, the State level, 40.1% women married before 18 years of age, 21.9% Women belonging to 15-19 years of age become mother. To address the challenges and for empowering girl children from economically weaker households with regard to their birth, education, and well-being, the Social Welfare and Social Education Department, Government of Tripura proposes the Mukhyamantri Balika Samriddhi Yojana (MBSY)- a welfare initiative to address critical issues concerning the girl child such as female foeticide, child marriage, gender discrimination, and lack of financial empowerment. The scheme is aligned with the State's commitment towards ensuring the rights and development of the girl child, especially among Antodaya (AAY) families.

1. Objectives ;

The scheme aims to support economically weaker section by financially assisting of girl children belonging to Antyodaya families. It intends to :-

- Prevent female foeticide and child marriage.
- Promote girl child enrollment, retention in education, and delay in age of marriage.
- Empower the girl child financially to support higher education and health.
